Season of Creation

As the Season of Creation comes to an end, we are called and reminded that each of us have a responsibility to do whatever we can, no matter how small, to protect and preserve nature and creation. We share the natural world with all of God's creation; fish of the sea, birds of the air, animals on land and all plants and vegetation. We also share this common home with all other people. We are part of creation, not a part from creation. The earth does not belong to us, we belong to the earth. Whatever we do to the planet, we do to ourselves and others. May we each play our part in caring for creation, not just for ourselves, but for our grandchildren and the generations coming after us.
